DURHAM, NH – Incumbent Jeanne Shaheen holds a clear advantage over her Republican challenger Corky Messner in the race for U.S. Senator from New Hampshire. Shaheen's lead over Messner is now more than double the lead she held over Scott Brown in October 2014. Congressman Chris Pappas continues to lead his Republican rival Matt Mowers in the race for Congress in the First District but the race has tightened slightly and some Pappas supporters appear open to changing their mind. In the Second District, Democrat Ann Kuster continues to lead in a tight rematch with Republican Steve Negrón.

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Nine hundred thirty-three (933) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between October 9 and October 12, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.2 percent. Included were 899 likely 2020 general election voters (MSE = +/- 3.3%). Among likely voters, 477 (MSE = +/- 4.5%) were First District residents and 422 (MSE = +/- 4.8%) were Second District residents. Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the New Hampshire Secretary of State and 2016 election results in NH. Granite State Panel members are recruited from randomly-selected landline and cell phone numbers across New Hampshire and surveys are sent periodically to panel members.

U.S. Senate Election

With three weeks until election day, incumbent Senator Jeanne Shaheen continues to hold a solid lead over her Republican opponent, Attorney Corky Messner, in her bid for a third term in the U.S. Senate. If the election for Senate were held today, 55% of likely New Hampshire voters say they would vote for Shaheen, 40% would vote for Messner, 2% would vote for Libertarian Justin O'Donnell, less than 1% would vote for another candidate, and 4% don't know or are undecided. Shaheen's lead over Messner (+15 percentage points) is largely unchanged since September (+13). Shaheen is better positioned for re-election than she was at a similar point in her last reelection - in October 2014 Shaheen led Republican challenger Scott Brown by only six percentage points.

2020 U.S. Senate Election (With Leaners & Those Who Have Already Voted)

* We ask that this copyrighted information be referred to as the Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center.

A record number of absentee ballots have already been cast for the upcoming election. Sixteen percent of residents say that they have already voted using an absentee ballot. Voters who have cast absentee ballots (N=150) clearly favor Shaheen: 87% say they voted for Shaheen, only 12% voted for Messner, 1% voted for O'Donnell, and less than 1% voted for another candidate.

- Shaheen leads Messner by 99 percentage points among Democrats and by 23 points among Independents. Messner holds a 77 percentage point lead among Republicans.
- Shaheen holds large leads over Messner among those aged 18 to 34 (+43 percentage points) and among those aged 65 and older (+33). Messner holds a small lead among those aged 35 to 49 (+10) and the two candidates are tied among those aged 50 to 64.
- Shaheen holds a very wide lead among women (+49) while Messner leads among men (+18).
- Shaheen holds a very large lead among women with a college degree (+67 percentage points) and sizeable leads among women without a college degree (+38) and men with a college degree (+29). Messner holds a clear lead among men without a college degree (+38).
- Shaheen leads Messner by 98 percentage points among those who supported Hillary Clinton in 2016 while Messner holds a smaller lead (+71) among those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016.

With the election only three weeks away, 85% of likely voters in New Hampshire say they have definitely decided on who they will vote for in the race for the U.S. Senate or have already voted. By comparison, 84% of likely voters say they have definitely decided on their vote for governor or have already voted and 95% have definitely decided on their vote for president or have already voted.

While Shaheen holds a clear lead, some of her supporters indicate they could still change their mind. Forty-eight percent of likely voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Shaheen or have already voted for her, 1% lean toward Shaheen, and 6% currently support Shaheen but are still trying to decide. Thirty-seven percent of likely voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Messner or have already voted for him, 1% lean toward Messner, and 1% support Messner but are still trying to decide.

U.S. Senate Candidates Favorability

Forty-five percent of New Hampshire residents say they have a favorable opinion of Jeanne Shaheen, 36% have an unfavorable opinion of her, 18% are neutral, and 1% don't know or are unsure. Shaheen's net favorability rating (the percentage with a favorable opinion minus the percentage with an unfavorable opinion) is +9, down slightly since September (+14%). By comparison, Joe Biden's net favorability in New Hampshire is +2%.

Shaheen (D) Favorability

Shaheen is very popular among Democrats in the state (+82% net favorability rating) and very unpopular among Republicans (-68%) while Independents are somewhat positive (+13%).

Twenty-four percent of New Hampshire residents say they have a favorable opinion of Corky Messner, 38% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 19% are neutral, and 19% don't know or are unsure. Messner's net favorability rating is -14%, largely unchanged since September (-11%). By comparison, Donald Trump's net favorability in New Hampshire is -12%.

Messner is popular among Republicans in the state (+42% net favorability rating) but is somewhat unpopular among Independents (-21%) and very unpopular among Democrats (-67%).

Libertarian nominee Justin O'Donnell is not well-known at all in the state - only 1% of New Hampshire residents have a favorable opinion of him, 7% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 11% are neutral, and 81% don't know or are unsure.

2020 First Congressional District Election

First District incumbent Congressman Chris Pappas continues to lead his Republican challenger, former State Department official Matt Mowers, but Pappas's advantage has shrunk since September. When asked who they would vote for if the election were held today, 53% of likely voters in New Hampshire's First District say they would vote for Pappas, 43% would vote for Mowers, 1% would vote for Libertarian Zachary Dumont, and 3% are undecided. Pappas's lead over Mowers (+10 percentage points) has closed somewhat since September (+17).

Among those who have voted via absentee ballot (N=95), 88% say they voted for Pappas while 12% voted for Mowers.

2020 First Congressional District Election (With Leaners & Those Who Have Already Voted)

- Pappas leads Mowers by 97 percentage points among Democrats and by 20 points among Independents. Mowers holds an 86 percentage point lead among Republicans.
- Pappas leads Mowers among those aged 65 and older (+35 percentage points), 35 to 49 (+22), and 18 to 34 (+16) while Mowers leads among those aged 50 to 64 (+14).
- Pappas holds a large lead among women (+41) while Mowers holds a smaller lead among men (+26%).
- Pappas leads Mowers by 94 percentage points among those who supported Hillary Clinton in 2016 while Mowers holds a slightly smaller lead (+80) among those who voted for Donald Trump in 2016.

2020 First Congressional District Election - Difference in Support - October 2020

With the election only three weeks away, 82% of likely voters in the First District say they have definitely decided for whom they will vote in the race for the Congress or have already voted, largely unchanged since September (81%).

Decided on Choice for First District Congress Election or Already Voted

While Pappas holds a lead among likely First District voters, a relatively large number of those supporting Pappas appear open to changing their mind. Forty-two percent of likely First District voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Pappas or have already voted for him, 1% lean toward Pappas, and 10% currently support Pappas but are still trying to decide. Forty percent of likely voters say they have definitely decided to vote for Mowers or have already voted for him, 2% lean toward Mowers, and less than 1% support Mowers but are still trying to decide.

Mowers's net favorability rating is 0%, unchanged compared to September (0%) although Mowers has become somewhat more well-known since August.

Mowers is only somewhat popular among First District Republicans (+34 net approval rating) and is somewhat unpopular among Democrats (-31) while Independents are neutral (-1%).

Libertarian nominee Zachary Dumont is not well-known at all in the First District - only 1% of First District residents have a favorable opinion of him, 5% have an unfavorable opinion of him, 14% are neutral, 80% don't know or are unsure.

2020 Second Congressional District Election

Incumbent Ann Kuster is seeking her fifth term representing New Hampshire's Second District in Congress and is in a rematch with her 2018 Republican opponent, former State Representative Steve Negron. When asked how they would vote if the election were held today, 49% of likely voters in the Second District say they would vote for Kuster, 45% would vote for Negron, 2% would vote for Libertarian A.J. Olding, less than 1% would vote for another candidate, and 3% don't know or are undecided. Kuster's lead over Negron (+4 percentage points) is largely unchanged since September (+7) and is smaller than in August (+12). In October 2018, shortly before the election, Kuster held a 15 percentage point lead over Negron.

Among those who have voted via absentee ballot (N=53), 85% say they voted for Kuster while 13% voted for Negron.

2020 Second Congressional District Election (With Leaners & Those Who Have Already Voted)

Granite State Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest Granite State Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Nine hundred thirty-three (933) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between October 9 and October 12, 2020. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.2 percent. Included were 899 likely 2020 general election voters (MSE = +/- 3.3%). Among likely voters, 477 (MSE = +/- 4.5%) were First District residents and 422 (MSE = +/- 4.8%) were Second District residents. These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. The response rate for the October 2020 Granite State Poll is 35%. The design effect for the survey is 2.7%.

Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the New Hampshire Secretary of State and to 2016 election results in New Hampshire.

The Granite State Panel is part of an effort by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center to investigate new ways of gathering and understanding the opinion of New Hampshire residents. Approximately 5,750 New Hampshire adults were recruited from randomly selected landline and cell phone numbers to participate in the panel. Panelists are then asked to participate in online surveys sponsored by the UNH Survey Center.

The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%.

For more information about the methodology used in the Granite State Panel, contact Dr. Andrew Smith at (603) 862-2226 or by email at andrew.smith@unh.edu.
